Evangelical Community Hospital, a non-profit healthcare provider, serves Union, Snyder, and Northumberland counties as well as surrounding communities.

The Hospital provides a broad range of healthcare services that are consistently high quality, compassionate, accessible, and cost-effective. In partnership with a strong and diverse medical staff, the Hospital promotes a healthy lifestyle and provides advanced medical care in an atmosphere that is caring and compassionate.

President's Message

At the foundation of every healthcare provider are key elements to success. At Evangelical Community Hospital, those elements are at the center of every interaction we have with and for the patient.

Together with our primary care practitioners we are committed to caring for the community and providing access to a wide array of specialists and treatments that enhance the quality of life for our patients. We back our specially trained experts with leading-edge technology, and we plan for strategic growth.

Last but not least, we have you. Thank you for your support as patients, donors, employees, volunteers, and advocates. Evangelical Community Hospital continues to deliver high-quality, affordable care because of your steadfast belief in our mission.

Acquisitions

Expanding Our Scope

Evangelical Community Hospital continues to build its foundation of specialists, increasing the medical options available to patients. In Fiscal Year 2014, that foundation was strengthened by acquiring two well-known practices: SUN Orthopaedic Group, Inc. and OB/GYN Associates of Lewisburg.

By the end of 2013, SUN Orthopaedics, which had had a collegial relationship with Evangelical for decades, officially became part of Evangelical Community Hospital's Medical Services Organization. The acquisition of this practice, renamed SUN Orthopaedics of Evangelical, combined Evangelical's leading-edge technology, modern facilities, and specially trained staff with the surgical expertise of SUN Ortho's eight board-certified surgeons.

The union represents a perfect fit for both entities, ensuring patients have seamless access to Evangelical's Center for Orthopaedics, where procedures for the muscular and skeletal systems are performed by a unified team dedicated solely to the care of orthopaedic patients of all ages.

During the beginning of 2014, a second merging of resources occurred with the acquisition of OB/GYN Associates of Lewisburg. The purchase brings together OB/GYN Associates' successful history of providing comprehensive women's healthcare and Evangelical's realized vision of convenient, accessible, and affordable health services for women of the local communities.

The practice officially became OB/GYN of Evangelical on July 1, 2014. The addition of OB/GYN Associates to Evangelical marries the Hospital's certified obstetric staff, surgical and obstetric capabilities and facilities, and technological advances with a thriving practice of experts in the field of gynecology and obstetrics.

OB/GYN of Evangelical comprises six physicians, three certified midwives, two certified registered nurse practitioners, and a certified physician assistant. These experienced practitioners offer a wide range of healthcare services for women of all ages, including obstetrical and prenatal care, high-risk pregnancy care, infertility treatment, and all aspects of gynecological care and surgery.

These acquisitions open the door for expansion and growth in a changing healthcare landscape while at the same time answer the ever-changing needs of Evangelical's patients and communities. ●

Whole Breast Ultrasound

Dense Breast Tissue Can Be Seen More Clearly

Early detection saves lives—that’s the message that is heard loud and clear throughout every breast cancer awareness campaign or pink-related event. At The Thyra M. Humphreys Center for Breast Health the staff is constantly looking for tools that keep them a step ahead of cancer.

In May 2014, the Center added a new technology to its line of defense. The sono•v™ ABUS Platinum system from GE Healthcare was installed to conduct whole breast ultrasounds on women with dense breasts. The sono•v adds three-dimensional technology to the already state-of-the-art imaging services provided at the Center.

Dense breast tissue not only increases the risk of breast cancer but also makes cancer more difficult to detect using mammography alone, according to multiple large studies. One study, published in the New England Journal of Medicine, showed mammography sensitivity is significantly reduced in women with dense breasts, as density masks the appearance of tumors. As breast density goes up, the accuracy of mammograms goes down. Studies have shown that automated breast ultrasound increases cancer detection by 35.7 percent over mammography alone for women with dense breasts.

This 3D, radiation-free whole breast ultrasound technology is designed to work in conjunction with mammography, which is still the only method of detecting cancers associated with calcifications.

Compared to another commonly used technology called Breast Tomosynthesis (3D mammography), the ABUS system is a readily accepted diagnostic tool by most insurances, offsetting fees for which the patient might be responsible.

“The ABUS system creates images through sound waves that are viewed on our Advanced 3D Workstation,” said Kenneth Jusko, DO, Medical Director of Imaging Services at Evangelical Community Hospital. “Those images are more accurate when identifying abnormalities in dense breasts because as the radiologist, I can see side-by-side comparisons of the same images from different angles, giving me several views of the same area at the same time on one screen. Those views give me incredible insight as to what exists inside the breast.”

“We are very excited to have added the GE Healthcare ABUS system to our comprehensive breast imaging

- Bigger picture: Ultrasounds the whole breast, not just portions of the breast
- Enhanced detection: Finding cancers at an earlier, more treatable stage in dense breast tissue
- No radiation: Uses sound waves to create 3D pictures of dense breast tissue

The somo•VIEWer™ Advanced 3D Workstation enables fast, accurate review and archiving of patient exams.

- Radiologists can look through hundreds of breast tissue image “slices,” looking at layers of dense tissue to find breast cancers that might be missed on a traditional mammogram.
- Clinicians can view suspicious areas in a 3D plane, giving them greater control over what is seen and supporting more confident decisions.

capabilities,” said John F. Turner, MD, FACS, Clinical Co-Manager of The Thyra M. Humphreys Center for Breast Health. “Mammography is an effective tool for the early detection of breast cancer; however, it doesn’t work equally well in all women, particularly those with dense breast tissue. The ability to offer ABUS in addition to mammography ensures our patients are getting the fullest range of imaging available, in the safest manner possible.”

By law, women must be notified by their healthcare providers if mammograms reveal they have dense breast tissue. The Center not only notifies patients they have this type of tissue, but the staff goes the extra step to provide them educational materials and consultation to help them understand and make the best decisions possible for their health.

“We realize there are other options in our local healthcare arena for breast care services including Breast Tomosynthesis, but we specifically chose this new 3D ultrasound technology for its superior ability to capture images of abnormalities through lower compression, without additional radiation exposure,” said Jusko.

“At the end of the day, our goal is to help every woman who has an abnormality detect it, find it early, and take whatever means necessary to resolve it.” ●

Giving Her a Fighting Chance

Nancy DeHaven-Imgrund, 46, of Lewisburg, visited The Thyra M. Humphreys Center for Breast Health for her annual mammogram. Previously identified as having dense breast tissue, Nancy asked her technician if she could have an ultrasound done that day with the Center for Breast Health’s new sono•V Automated Breast Ultrasound (ABUS). While her mammogram results came back normal, the ABUS 3D imaging technology showed otherwise. Nancy returned to the Center for Breast Health, this time meeting with John F. Turner, MD, FACS, to undergo a breast biopsy, which detected cancer.

After additional tests indicated the cancer had spread to her lymph nodes, Nancy is fighting back with a treatment plan consisting of chemotherapy, surgery, and radiation.

“If it wasn’t for the ABUS, I wouldn’t be here (fighting cancer),” she said, adding to the women in the Susquehanna Valley, “the technology is at Evangelical, so take advantage of it.” ●

“If it wasn’t for the ABUS, I wouldn’t be here fighting cancer. The technology is at Evangelical, so take advantage of it.”

New Physicians

Our Experts, Your Options

Personalized medical care, delivered by expert practitioners with state-of-the-art tools and technology, all housed in a modern facility—that's Evangelical's definition of outstanding healthcare.

At Evangelical Community Hospital a key element to exceptional care is the availability of experts in all fields of treatment. With that in mind, recruitment efforts of Fiscal Year 2014 have brought new caregivers to the area and provided greater access to specialized medical care.

Orthopaedic Surgeons Improve Mobility

With the demand for orthopaedic surgery continuing to grow as people live longer and want to stay active and healthy, Evangelical officially brought SUN Orthopaedic Group, Inc. under its umbrella of experts. The board-certified orthopaedists added to Evangelical's brigade of surgeons are, Brian Batman, MD; Charles Cole Jr., MD; Thomas Dominick, MD; Matthew Eager, MD; John Furia, MD; Paul Lin, MD; Thomas Martin, MD; and Matthew Reish, MD. With the addition of their surgical skills, Evangelical provides a wide range of orthopaedic services including total joint replacement; hand, shoulder, and spine treatment and surgery; and sports medicine.

Pediatrician Has Kids Care Covered

Mary Beth O'Hara, DO, FAAP, pediatrician, joined the Evangelical staff in August 2013. Certified by the American Board of Pediatrics and having completed her pediatric residency at Janet Weis Children's Hospital in Danville, she is dedicated to the health and wellness of every child in her care. Building on her experience as a physician and mother of three, she approaches parents as partners in the health of their child.

OB/GYN Offers Care of Women's Health Issues

Helen A. Lambe, MD, obstetrician and gynecologist, came on board with Evangelical in January 2014. With her arrival women now have another option for dedicated care of women's health. Dr. Lambe is board-certified in Obstetrics and Gynecology and has 20 years of women's health experience. She performs general gynecological care emphasizing prevention and health maintenance.

Dr. Lambe also addresses cancer screening, birth control, treatment of problem menstrual cycles, and treatment of menopausal symptoms and issues. Dr. Lambe joins OB/GYN of Evangelical's specialized team of women's healthcare providers.

Student Healthcare with a Family Touch

Evangelical continues its community partnership with Bucknell University by providing its students with family medicine that feels like home. Catherine O'Neil, MD, joined the Student Health Center and works to meet the medical needs of Bucknell's students. Board-certified in Family Medicine, Dr. O'Neil completed her medical education at Jefferson Medical College and her residency at Geisinger Medical Center.

Rheumatologist Assists with Management of Arthritis and Other Rheumatic Diseases

Lisa Anne Mucciolo, MD, rheumatologist, began practicing at Rheumatology of Evangelical on July 28, 2014.

Patients with rheumatic diseases such as arthritis, lupus, vasculitis, rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthritis, fibromyalgia, gout, osteoporosis, and other conditions of the joints, muscles, and bones benefit from the care of a rheumatology specialist. Board-certified in Rheumatology by the American Board of Internal Medicine, Mucciolo has been practicing medicine since 1996.

Hospitalists Coordinate Care Between Hospital and Physician

Evangelical welcomed several new hospitalists over the year. Hospitalists specialize in the care of patients in the hospital. They often work as the expert on hand and serve as the care coordinator between the hospital and the patient's family physician.

Seth I. Weber, MD, joined the team in October 2013 and was named Medical Director of the Hospitalist Group at Evangelical. Certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine, he completed his internship and residency at Sinai Hospital of Baltimore. As Medical Director, he oversees the Hospitalist Group at Evangelical.

Zeshan Anwar, MD, who completed internships in Internal Medicine, Neurological Surgery, and Medical Oncology, also adds to the expert care delivered through Evangelical's Hospitalist Group. He completed his residency at the Bronx-Lebanon Hospital Center, New York City.

Faiz Ur Rahman, MD, joined Evangelical Community Hospital and Geisinger's Janet Weis Children's Hospital as a pediatric hospitalist.

Dr. Rahman's presence at the Hospital brings special attention to the medical needs of children on the medical floors. He assists local pediatricians and primary care physicians in the treatment of pediatric inpatients and newborns in the nursery.

Recruitment Continues

With a full-time recruiter on staff, the Hospital continues to seek medical professionals in the areas of primary care, women's health, endocrinology, pulmonology, and more. ●

SANE Program

Celebrates 20 Years of Advocacy for Victims

Twenty years ago, the leaders and administrators of Evangelical Community Hospital made a decision based on the passion of one nurse who changed the way all of Pennsylvania would handle sexual assault cases in the future.

Through the perseverance and determination of Darlene Rowe, RN, CEN, Director of Emergency Services at the Hospital, the Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner (SANE) program was begun in 1994, the first program of its type in Pennsylvania.

The SANE program focuses on specialized care of victims while at the same time making sure evidence is collected properly to aid the criminal justice system in conviction of the offender.

At Evangelical, victims are treated in a discrete area of the emergency room, away from other patients, in consideration of the special circumstances.

Prepared to care for sexual assault victims at all times of the day and night, one of the SANE nurses is called in to deliver the care these cases require, with the sensitivity of a trained individual. An interview with the patient is done in a team format with the police present so the patient doesn't have to relive or retell the story over and over again, lessening the need to re-victimize the patient.

SANE nurses are trained through extensive course work that includes evidence handling, gynecological/pelvic examination, and the sensitive handling of the victim's mental and emotional well-being in addition to their physical care. As a commitment to understanding, the nurses participate in police rides and meet with district attorneys to get an up-close, personal view of the criminal justice system in the area.

"In 20 years, the program, and more importantly the nurses who have chosen to be part of it, has made great strides in assuring patients are cared for compassionately to help them heal and receive justice," said Rowe.

Currently there are four certified SANE nurses at Evangelical and in Fiscal Year 2014, 32 cases of sexual assault came through the Emergency Department's doors. The program is so valuable that since its inception, hospitals from all over the state have used Evangelical's model to build their own sexual assault programs. Many of those have asked that Rowe come to help them in the implementation.

Rowe continued, "Now, not only have we convinced our rural community that we need a program of this nature, but the effort has grown, and hospitals throughout Pennsylvania have made the choice to include a similar program at their locations and give victims of sexual assault places to go in their time of need." ●

Pioneer in Sexual Assault Program at Evangelical Receives Governor's Pathfinder Award

For spearheading the Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner (SANE) program and her continued support and management of the dedicated nurses who deliver services to victims of sexual assault, Darlene Rowe, RN, CEN, now the Director of Emergency Services at Evangelical Community Hospital, was awarded the Governor's Pathfinder Award in the Allied Professional Award Category in 2014. She was presented the award at the 13th Pennsylvania Pathways for Victim Services Conference in State College, which is held to foster professional development for victims' service providers.

The Pathfinder Award, sponsored by the Pennsylvania Coalition on Crime and Delinquency (PCCD), is given to an individual who has a history of outstanding service in meeting the needs of individual victims in collaboration with a Pennsylvania victim service program. ●

EVANGELICAL ELEMENTS

Evangelical's team of laboratory experts processes more than 94,000 tests every month and more than 1.3 million tests every year.

Information Technology Upgrades

High-Tech Tools Meet One-on-One Patient Care

Patients entering Evangelical Community Hospital receive high-quality care on two levels, human and beyond human.

Evangelical's people deliver skilled, compassionate medical attention, which has built the Hospital's reputation as a place with a personal touch, backed by a degree of leading-edge technology that some might find surprising.

One expects computerized patient and pharmaceutical records at a modern hospital—both of which you find at Evangelical—but there are even more surprising technology additions at this community hospital. Computerized medication administration, electronic messages between pharmacists and nurses, optimized operating room utilization, high-tech tools for sanitizing patient rooms, and more exist within the walls of Evangelical. All are incredible advancements for a community hospital that has been in existence since 1926.

"Information Technology (IT) touches everything now," said Dale Moyer, Vice President of Information Systems/Chief Information Officer, who led employees through more than 14 IT upgrades or replacements this fiscal year. "It doesn't matter what your job is here. You're going to be involved with some form of technology."

Patients benefit from IT upgrades in the integration of electronic, privacy-protected data, which follows them not only within Hospital departments but to and from outpatient offices as well. This provides physicians a patient's health history so doctors can quickly sift through information needed at the moment—say, medications or previous surgeries—to find the data that used to be available only through time-consuming phone or email messages.

"Integration is really the name of the game with information systems," Moyer said. "It became very clear, talking to providers, that they wanted some sort of integrated system. They wanted to give the patient exceptional care, which starts with a foundation of having all the information clinicians need in one place."

Seeing that integrated files would improve the efficiency of handling patient information, and because the Hospital's strategic plan has always centered on providing patients the best possible care, the Hospital updated to Allscripts™ Sunrise Acute Care, an industry-leading electronic health record system, as an important step in the integration process. The timing for the upgrade complemented the Hospital's efforts to meet Meaningful Use—specific objectives that hospitals must achieve to qualify for Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) Incentive Programs.

The vast reach of the new, integrated system required two full-time Allscripts employees onsite and an Evangelical team of six IT members dedicated to implementing the program as well as a dozen or so “super users”—nurses, lab technicians, etc.—who learned the system and then helped their colleagues. Technology enhances instead of replaces experienced hospital staff.

Lab Information Systems coordinators double-check the accuracy of every single lab result. Part of the electronic health record implementation required the coordinators to validate the display of every test sent into the Allscripts system, a laborious process encompassing thousands of codes. Other upgrades include the GE Centricity Surgical Management System, which helps surgical staff members more efficiently manage resources, including rooms, anesthesia records, and supplies, while a Tracker Board charts a patient's progress from pre-op to recovery. The Workstation on Wheels (WOW) accompanies nurses from room to room and eliminates sometimes hard-to-read handwritten notes on patient care, while the bedside Knowledge-Based Medication Administration™ (KBMA) reduces human error with bar code scanning and enables nurses to confidently verify the Five Rights of Medication Administration: right medication, right dose, right time, right route, and right patient.

“It's a safety check, and it's a good one,” Moyer said.

Electronic technology touches every department, including those where patients would least expect to find it, like custodial work. Moyer described a black light tool that gauges cleanliness in random inspections of patient rooms.

“We score very well,” he added. “We're very proud of that and of the job Environmental Services does.”

The IT upgrades and replacements could not have succeeded without the camaraderie of staff members in all Hospital departments.

“This project brought more people together in collaboration than any I've seen in a long time because there are so many pieces to it,” Moyer said. “I would like to commend our entire Hospital staff. It was a monumental task. The effort put forth to make it successful was really appreciated by our entire department.” ●

Deb Shaffer, with her daughters Avery and Jovie, watch the Tracker Board that keeps families updated on their loved one's status.

Keeping Tabs

Anyone who's endured the tense experience of sitting in a waiting room while a loved one undergoes surgery can appreciate the reassurance of the GE Centricity Surgical Management System's Tracker Board. In the waiting room, friends and family members can follow the patient using a private identification number on a virtual "white board" and track their loved one's surgical progress from arrival to the recovery room. Within the surgical areas, the same information is displayed in more detail, allowing staff to better manage resources to attend to patients.

"For example, the recovery room staff can tell approximately when patients will be arriving from the operating room based on the case status of their display," said Dale Moyer, Vice President of Information Systems/Chief Information Officer. "Similarly, staff knows when a room is available to be cleaned and prepped for the next case."

Optimizing resource management allows for a smoother, more efficient flow, leading to the top-notch healthcare experience that patients have come to appreciate at Evangelical Community Hospital.

New Patient Portal

Access on Your Schedule

Evangelical Community Hospital continued its commitment to empowering patients in managing their own health and wellness with a completely renovated patient portal in Fiscal Year 2014.

Hosted by industry-leading Follow My Health, the improved portal provides secure, anywhere, anytime access to personalized health information using any computer, smartphone, or tablet. Patients can now take more active roles in their healthcare, setting reminders for important screening milestones, connecting with primary care providers through secure email, and much more.

The portal is open to patients at primary care practices in the Evangelical Medical Service Organization (EMSO), Central Penn Gastroenterology Associates, and patients of specialty practices under the EMSO umbrella—such as SUN Orthopaedics of Evangelical and Rheumatology of Evangelical. The portal can also be utilized by patients admitted to the Hospital, regardless of where they receive their primary care.

In addition to an improved patient experience, the renovated portal will serve as Evangelical's attestation vehicle for the federal government's Meaningful Use 2 program. The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services is offering significant financial incentives to healthcare providers, systems, and hospitals that implement and demonstrate use of digital health and wellness elements, such as electronic health records and patient portals. ●

Legacy Circle Fiscal Year 2014

In 1995, the Board of Directors established The Legacy Circle for friends who have included the Hospital in their estate plans or made other planned gifts such as a gift annuity or charitable trust. The Legacy Circle allows Evangelical to express its gratitude now to those who have made future provisions for the Hospital.

ADVANCING EXCELLENCE

The Advancing Excellence campaign was completed in 1996 and supported by many generous individuals and organizations.

Thanks are extended for the generous donation from the family of Robert L. Rooke, a Bucknell graduate and trustee, who provided for Evangelical Community Hospital through his estate, helping to make possible the West addition project.

Robert L. Rooke

was an avid philanthropist who supported the Hospital throughout his lifetime.

A Bucknell graduate and trustee, Mr. Rooke provided for Evangelical Community Hospital through his estate, helping to make possible the West addition project.

1995

Bob Miller, Team Leader, Environmental Services, operates the Chariot floor scrubber used to clean and maintain the Hospital floors.

EVANGELICAL ELEMENTS

The first line of the Hospital's patient and visitor safety efforts, Environmental Services cleans and maintains more than 485,000 square feet of space—that's equal to about eight football fields.

Fiscal Stewardship

Evangelical Community Hospital continues to exceed financial expectations, building on its solid fiscal foundation in the face of unprecedented regulatory, industry, and market factors.

Along with the continued deployment of the Affordable Care Act, there is a deepening correlation between quality outcomes and reimbursement levels, a heightened expectation for transparency in all facets of the operation—from treatment results to billing—as well as an increased focus on mergers and acquisitions.

Standing above these factors, the Hospital ended Fiscal Year 2014 by improving its already healthy balance sheet. Cash and short-term investments doubled, while investments set aside for future capital improvements grew from more than $67 million to more than $75 million.

Strategic acquisitions have Evangelical positioned to enhance its market footprint and continue positive growth trends through Fiscal Year 2015.

Purchased in January 2014, SUN Orthopaedic Group, Inc., with its eight board-certified surgeons, is the region's premier bone and joint practice. The physicians and specially trained practitioners at OB/GYN Associates of Lewisburg were brought under the Hospital's umbrella at the close of Fiscal Year 2014. Both are thriving practices with high levels of brand equity in the market.

Newly acquired revenue sources, continued investment in advanced technology, and a sustained focus on a positive patient experience have Evangelical poised for yet another successful year.

2014 Community Benefit Report

Evangelical Community Hospital contributes to the health and well-being of our community by providing educational programs, preventative screenings, and affordable and accessible healthcare.

The Hospital's Community Health and Wellness department offers vital services to the Central Susquehanna Valley, reaching thousands of people each year through programs such as the men's and women's health screenings, vaccination clinics, support groups, car seat inspections, CPR training, and more.

In Fiscal Year 2014, Evangelical invested more than $22 million in community benefit initiatives. The Hospital continued its prevention-focused outreach by educating more than 7,000 youths on the importance of developing a healthy lifestyle and behaviors at a young age.

This Community Benefit Report outlines Evangelical's many contributions to the Central Susquehanna Valley over the past year.

Elements of Success

Fiscal Year 2014

Each year, Evangelical's clinicians, staff, volunteers, executives, and Board of Directors innovate, expand, and implement programs and services to meet the health and wellness needs of the community. Here are just a few from Fiscal Year 2014.

August 2013

Strategic Plan Unveiled

The FY2014-FY2016 Strategic Plan is designed to position the Hospital to best address existing factors while allowing the organization enough flexibility to adapt to new influences in our ever-changing industry and market. Its strategic objectives and the action steps that accompany each have been designed to support five strategic pillars: people, quality, growth, financial, and service.

September 2013

Single-Stream Recycling Introduced

Committed to limiting its environmental footprint, Evangelical introduced single-stream recycling, allowing recyclables to be co-mingled (plastic with cans with paper, etc.) and encouraging more items than ever to be reused.

October 2013

Responded to Greyhound Bus Crash

When a Greyhound bus collided with a tractor-trailer on Interstate 80, Evangelical initiated its incident command team. The Hospital provided emergency medical care for 14 passengers and compassion to more than a dozen passengers displaced but unhurt in the crash.

October 2013

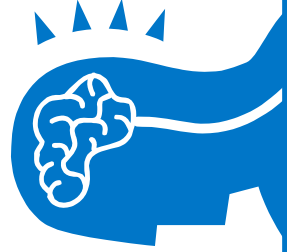

New VP of Human Resources Named

Rising from Director of Organizational Development and Training, Angela Hummel joined the Executive Operating Team as Vice President of Human Resources. Later in the year, she successfully attained the Senior Professional in Human Resources® (SPHR) certification.

December 2013

Holiday Tradition Continues

A decades-old tradition of thanking staff members for their dedication with a free holiday meal continued as executive and management team members donned aprons and dished out the delicious holiday fare. The meal is one of many elements that helps set Evangelical as an employer of choice in the Central Susquehanna Valley.

April 2014

Primary Stroke Center Earns Re-Accreditation and Award

Not only was the Primary Stroke Center re-accredited by DNV Healthcare Inc., endorsing it as a full-spectrum stroke program, the Center was also recognized with a Get With The Guidelines® - Stroke Bronze Quality Achievement Award from the American Heart Association/ American Stroke Association the same month.

February 2014

Laboratory CAP Survey Successful

After undergoing an extensive expansion and renovation, Evangelical's Pathology Laboratory met all applicable standards for accreditation by the College of American Pathologists' Laboratory Accreditation Program.

June 2014

The Family Place Renovation Completed

After 18 months of extensive renovations, The Family Place unveiled its new patient and labor and delivery rooms geared toward more comfort for patients and their newborns.
